Where The Hell Is That X-Ray?

POV story, relatable panic turning into calm. Every specialist has lived the 4:58 PM missing-X-ray moment.

LENGTH	MADE IN	GOAL
9 clips × 8 s = 72 s	Google Flow, one 8 s clip per segment	Value first, then one soft call to action: check out ToothReferral. No prices.

Why this version

A story hook works with dental teams because they recognise it instantly; the dashboard then answers the exact problem in the hook, which shows the value without a sales line.

The whole script at a glance

00-08 s	Hook · “It's 4:58, the patient is in the chair, and the GP swears they sent the X-ray. Where the hell is it?”
08-16 s	The usual suspects · “Spoiler: it's buried in someone's inbox, in a fax tray, or on page three of an email chain from June.”
16-24 s	How it should work · “Now, meet Tooth Referral. Here's how it works: every incoming referral, from every office, lands in one list you can trust.”
24-32 s	There it is · “Open the patient, and the X-rays are right there, shared with both offices. The insurance card is too, front and back.”
32-40 s	Ask in the case · “Is something missing? Message the GP inside the case. Tag them, and when they answer, it's saved with the patient.”
40-48 s	No callbacks · “Then update the status, and the referring office sees it instantly. No more callbacks or "any update?" emails.”
48-56 s	The network · “Every office you work with stays connected. That's not just software; it's a referral network that works.”
56-64 s	Close · “So, next time it's 4:58, you'll know exactly where that X-ray is. Calm, collected, and connected.”
64-72 s	Call to action · “Want that calm for your office? Check out Tooth Referral and bring every referring office into one place.”

Before you generate

- One clip = one segment = 8 seconds. Keep every line to the words written (14 to 20 words fits 8 s at a natural pace). Longer lines get rushed or cut.
- Start and end every clip in the rest pose. Hands relaxed at chest height, looking at camera, mouth closed for about half a second at the very start and end. This is what lets me join the clips so they feel like one take.
- Gestures happen inside the frame, at chest-to-shoulder height. A hand that leaves the frame cannot be tracked, and the animation that rides on it has nowhere to land.
- Point at the same places every time. Upper-left = where the dashboard panel will appear. Right side = where chat / notifications appear. Keep these consistent so the animations always land where he points.
- Paste the dark 'Google Flow prompt' box as is, one box per clip. Each box is complete on its own: camera, a second-by-second beat sheet of hand gestures with the words they land on, facial expression, head movement and the spoken line. The same prompts are in the matching -Flow-prompts.txt file, which copies cleaner than a PDF. If Flow blocks a swear word, use the clean line given at the end of that prompt.

Gesture key (what each gesture turns into in the edit)

POINT	index finger to a spot: a panel, callout or highlight appears there
SWIPE	flat hand across the body: the screen changes in that direction
COUNT	fingers 1-2-3: items pop in one per finger
TAP	a small forward finger tap in the air: a click / button press
PINCH-OUT	fingers spread apart: zoom into the dashboard
JOIN	hands come together / fingers interlock: offices connect into one network
TOSS	flick over the shoulder: the old way gets thrown out of frame
