TOOTH REFERRAL · GOOGLE FLOW SCRIPTS

Four conversational stories, ready for Google Flow

Scripts 14-17 rewritten for Flow: each story is a set of 8-second clips with the exact dialogue and a complete prompt per clip. Every story names Tooth Referral and shows, in a little detail, how it solves the problem, in a natural conversation.

How to use in Flow

- Make a background still for each location first (Imagen), then generate each clip from it so the room stays the same.
- Paste each clip prompt as it is. Each one is self-contained: look, set, characters, hands, face, head, camera, the line and the voice.
- Dialogue is kept to about 20 words per 8-second clip so the lip-sync fits. Where two people speak in one clip, the prompt says who goes first.
- Flow sometimes says "Tute Referral": write it as two words, "Tooth Referral", as in these prompts. If it still slips, re-voice that line in ElevenLabs.
- For continuity, extend from the last frame of the previous clip (Flow "Extend" / frames-to-video).
- The real dashboard screens are added in the edit (split screen), never generated, so the product looks exactly like it is.

14	Nothing to Fill Out Patient story	Patients end up as the courier between two offices: clipboards, insurance numbers read out loud, X-rays that never arrive by fax and have to be retaken.
15	The Sick Day Front desk story	A voicemail was left, then the person who left it was out sick. The call-back only lived on a sticky note, so nobody else knew a patient was waiting.
16	"Where's My Patient?" Referring office story	The communication black hole: the referral goes out, then silence. The patient blames her own dentist, and the office spends its lunch break on hold.
17	First Day, No Notebook Turnover and owner story	When a coordinator leaves, nobody knows what still needs to be done: pending call-backs, consults with no note, half-verified insurance. It lived in one person's head.

Client rules applied: "general dentist", never "GP"; offices Gentle Dental (referring) and St. Andrew's Family Dental (specialist); staff only Barbara, Tanya, Amanda, Greg; no doctors' names; no red in the frame or our graphics; the front desk is always the hero. Dashboard numbers come from the canonical analytics reference (reel/public/analytics-ref). ROI figures are "potential", from the client call of Nov 5.

SCRIPT 14 · PATIENT STORY · GOOGLE FLOW

Nothing to Fill Out

A nervous patient brings a folder of paperwork to his implant consult, and finds out he doesn't need any of it.

THE PROBLEM

Patients end up as the courier between two offices: clipboards, insurance numbers read out loud, X-rays that never arrive by fax and have to be retaken.

HOW TOOTH REFERRAL SOLVES IT

With Tooth Referral, Gentle Dental sends one referral case with the X-rays attached. The specialist taps "Request from patient", the patient photographs his insurance card through a secure link, and both offices see the same case. After the consult, Tooth Referral sends the signed consult note back to the general dentist automatically.

Format Vertical 9:16, 11 clips x 8 s = about 88 s, live-action look. Generate one background still per location first (Imagen), then every clip from it, so rooms never change.

CHARACTERS (BUILT INTO EVERY PROMPT)

BOB — Bob Smith, the patient
a man in his early 50s with short salt-and-pepper hair, a short trimmed grey beard, kind eyes, a navy quarter-zip sweater over a light-blue collared shirt and khaki trousers
Voice: a warm, slightly gravelly male voice in his early 50s, natural neutral American accent, friendly and a little nervous at first, relaxed by the end

a man in his late 20s with short dark-brown hair, clean-shaven, a friendly open face, charcoal-grey scrubs and a small blank white name badge
Voice: a clear, warm, upbeat male voice in his late 20s, natural neutral American accent, calm and welcoming

TANYA — Tanya, front desk at Gentle Dental a woman in her mid-30s with dark-brown hair in a low side ponytail, navy short-sleeve V-neck scrubs and a small blank white name badge
Voice: a warm mid-to-low female voice in her mid-30s, natural neutral American accent

LOCATIONS

- car: Inside a parked silver mid-size sedan in a sunny dental-office parking lot, morning. Light-grey fabric seats, a phone in a dashboard mount, a thick manila folder on the passenger seat. Through the windshield, a modern single-storey dental building with a glass entrance (no readable sign).
- sa_desk: The front desk of a bright, modern specialist dental office (St. Andrew's Family Dental): a long white quartz counter with a light-oak front panel, a slim monitor angled away from camera (soft glow, no readable screen), a black desk phone, a pen cup, a small tooth model, a sage-green wall with a framed smiling-tooth illustration, a doorway behind showing a dental chair and an overhead dental light, beige waiting chairs and a window with sheer blinds and soft daylight.
- flash: A crowded, older dental waiting room: beige walls, fluorescent lights, a reception window with a sliding glass panel, stacks of paper forms, a fax machine on a side counter, plastic chairs. Desaturated, slightly cool colour grade (flashback look).

EDIT PLAN: REAL DASHBOARD INSERTS (SPLIT SCREEN)

- Clip 5: the case detail Attachments "shared with both offices" (X-rays, Insurance cards) - reel/public/dash2/cs-01-case-detail.
- Clip 8: the referral arriving in the Incoming list - in-01-incoming-list.
- Clip 9: Insurance cards with the "Request from patient" button - cs-01-case-detail (crop to the insurance block).
- Clip 10: "Consultation Note signed and sent successfully" - cs-07-signed-success.

The monitors in the footage never show text, so the real screens go on top in the edit.

CLOSING VOICE-OVER (RECORD IN ELEVENLABS, FEMALE PRESENTER "BELLA")

"When the referral, the X-rays and the insurance arrive together in Tooth Referral, your patient walks in ready. Set up takes about five minutes."

ROI LINE FOR THE CAPTION / END CARD

Smooth intake protects case acceptance (76% on the analytics reference) and saves repeat X-rays and re-verification. One case that doesn't walk out pays for the software.

The Sick Day

Tanya comes back from a sick day and finds out the voicemail she left on Friday was never followed up.

THE PROBLEM

A voicemail was left, then the person who left it was out sick. The call-back only lived on a sticky note, so nobody else knew a patient was waiting.

HOW TOOTH REFERRAL SOLVES IT

In Tooth Referral, "Left a Voice Message" is a status the whole team sees on the status board, every change is time-stamped in the patient's activity log, and referrals tried three or more times show up under Needs Attention with a one-click Re-assign, so whoever is at the desk picks them up.

Format Vertical 9:16, 11 clips x 8 s = about 88 s, live-action look. Generate one background still per location first (Imagen), then every clip from it, so rooms never change.

CHARACTERS (BUILT INTO EVERY PROMPT)

TANYA — Tanya, front desk at St. Andrew's Family Dental a woman in her mid-30s with dark-brown hair in a low side ponytail over her left shoulder, navy short-sleeve V-neck scrubs and a small blank white name badge, light natural makeup, a little pale (just back from a sick day)
Voice: a warm mid-to-low female voice in her mid-30s, natural neutral American accent; tired at first, then relieved

a woman in her early 30s with shoulder-length light-brown wavy hair worn down, a soft teal scrub top under a light-grey cardigan and a small blank white name badge
Voice: a bright, friendly, slightly higher female voice in her early 30s, natural neutral American accent; calm and reassuring

LOCATIONS

EDIT PLAN: REAL DASHBOARD INSERTS (SPLIT SCREEN)

- Clip 6: status update and the toast "Status updated successfully!" (real recording).
- Clip 6-7: Status board card "Left a Voice Message - 3" with Lily Cox, Chloe Henderson, Owen Ward - reel/public/analytics-ref/08-status-board.
- Clip 7: the patient activity log - reel/public/dash3c/r3c-activity-log.
- Clip 8-9: Needs attention "2 ghost referrals ... 3+ attempts logged - Re-assign" - reel/public/analytics-ref/06-needs-staff.

The monitors in the footage never show text, so the real screens go on top in the edit.

CLOSING VOICE-OVER (RECORD IN ELEVENLABS, FEMALE PRESENTER "BELLA")

"People get sick. People forget. With Tooth Referral, the follow-up never depends on one person. Set up takes about five minutes."

ROI LINE FOR THE CAPTION / END CARD

One referral that doesn't slip through the cracks pays for the software; saving referrals like this one adds up to potentially about $5,000 a year.

SCRIPT 16 · REFERRING OFFICE STORY · GOOGLE FLOW

"Where's My Patient?"

A general dentist's office manager keeps getting calls from a patient asking when her surgery is, and has no idea what the specialist did.

THE PROBLEM

The communication black hole: the referral goes out, then silence. The patient blames her own dentist, and the office spends its lunch break on hold.

HOW TOOTH REFERRAL SOLVES IT

With Tooth Referral both offices work in the same case from their own dashboard: Barbara sees the live status (Consultation Scheduled, Thursday), messages St. Andrew's with an @mention right on the case, gets an answer in a minute, and receives the signed consult note automatically. No access codes, no portal links, no fax.

Format Vertical 9:16, 11 clips x 8 s = about 88 s, live-action look. Generate one background still per location first (Imagen), then every clip from it, so rooms never change.

BARBARA "She thinks we forgot about her. And honestly, I have no idea what's happening over there."

FLOW PROMPT (PASTE AS IS)

Vertical 9:16 video, 8 seconds, one continuous shot. Photorealistic live-action footage that looks professionally filmed, not AI-generated: cinema camera (Sony FX3 look), 35mm lens, natural daylight plus soft practical lights, true-to-life colours, real skin texture with pores, subtle film grain, natural imperfections, no glossy or plastic look.
The front desk of a friendly general dentist office (Gentle Dental): a warm white counter, a monitor angled away from camera (soft glow, no readable screen), a desk phone with a shoulder-rest handset, a pen cup, a small plant, a light-blue wall with a framed smiling-tooth poster, a doorway to a treatment room.
BARBARA: a woman in her early 50s with chin-length silver-blonde hair, reading glasses pushed up on her head, a lavender scrub top under a navy cardigan and a small blank white name badge.
GREG: a man in his late 20s with short dark-brown hair, clean-shaven, charcoal-grey scrubs and a small blank white name badge.
Action and hands: Barbara hangs up and turns to Greg, who leans on the counter. She lifts both hands in a small helpless shrug on "no idea".
Face: Barbara: frustrated, honest. Greg: sympathetic. Head: Barbara lets her head drop slightly.
Camera: Medium two-shot, static.
BARBARA speaks with a warm, steady female voice in her early 50s, natural neutral American accent; patient, a little exasperated at first, then satisfied. Perfectly lip-synced: "She thinks we forgot about her. And honestly, I have no idea what's happening over there."
Audio: only the spoken line and quiet room tone. No music, no subtitles, no captions, no on-screen text, no readable screens, no logos, no red clothing or props, no extra people, no warping hands or faces.

EDIT PLAN: REAL DASHBOARD INSERTS (SPLIT SCREEN)

- Clip 6: the Outgoing list with the status "Consultation Scheduled" (real recording, Outgoing tab).
- Clip 7-8: Office Communication with the @mention; "All communications are HIPAA compliant and encrypted" - cs-08-case-messages.
- Clip 10: DocuSign completion note signed and the "Signed Referral" row - cs-06-signed-done / cs-07-signed-success.

The monitors in the footage never show text, so the real screens go on top in the edit.

CLOSING VOICE-OVER (RECORD IN ELEVENLABS, FEMALE PRESENTER "BELLA")

"General dentists don't stop referring over clinical skill. They stop over silence. Tooth Referral puts both offices on one case. Set up takes about five minutes."

ROI LINE FOR THE CAPTION / END CARD

Offices refer more to specialists who keep them updated: new referrals from the network are worth potentially $5,000-$10,000 a year. St. Andrew's Family Dental is already the top sender on the analytics reference (7 of 28).

SCRIPT 17 · TURNOVER AND OWNER STORY · GOOGLE FLOW

First Day, No Notebook

A new front-desk hire asks for the last coordinator's notes, and learns that this time, the notes live in the software.

THE PROBLEM

When a coordinator leaves, nobody knows what still needs to be done: pending call-backs, consults with no note, half-verified insurance. It lived in one person's head.

HOW TOOTH REFERRAL SOLVES IT

Tooth Referral's status board shows every patient, their status and how long they've waited, so a new hire knows exactly who to call first. Each status update notifies the referring office automatically, and the owner checks the analytics page any evening: 28 referrals, first contact in 3.7 hours, nothing to chase.

The front desk of a bright, modern specialist dental office (St. Andrew's Family Dental): a long white quartz counter with a light-oak front panel, a slim monitor angled away from camera (soft glow, no readable screen), a black desk phone, a pen cup, a small tooth model, a sage-green wall with a framed smiling-tooth illustration, a doorway behind showing a dental chair and an overhead dental light, beige waiting chairs and a window with sheer blinds and soft daylight.
GREG: a man in his late 20s with short dark-brown hair, clean-shaven, charcoal-grey scrubs and a small blank white name badge, eager first-day energy.
AMANDA: a woman in her early 30s with shoulder-length light-brown wavy hair worn down, a soft teal scrub top under a light-grey cardigan and a small blank white name badge.
Action and hands: Greg hangs up, clicks the mouse twice and turns to Amanda. Then AMANDA answers (second line below).
Face: Greg: pleasantly surprised. Amanda: a proud smile. Head: Amanda gives a small, satisfied nod.
Camera: Medium two-shot, static.
GREG speaks first, with a clear, warm male voice in his late 20s, natural neutral American accent, curious and upbeat.
Perfectly lip-synced: "That's it? I update the status, and the referring office already sees it?"
Then AMANDA answers, with a bright, friendly, slightly higher female voice in her early 30s, natural neutral American accent; warm, honest. Perfectly lip-synced: "Automatically."
Audio: only the spoken line and quiet room tone. No music, no subtitles, no captions, no on-screen text, no readable screens, no logos, no red clothing or props, no extra people, no warping hands or faces.

CLIP 09 The owner, that evening

64-72 s · 15 words

OWNER "I used to find out about problems months later. Now I just open the analytics."

FLOW PROMPT (PASTE AS IS)

Vertical 9:16 video, 8 seconds, one continuous shot. Photorealistic live-action footage that looks professionally filmed, not AI-generated: cinema camera (Sony FX3 look), 35mm lens, natural daylight plus soft practical lights, true-to-life colours, real skin texture with pores, subtle film grain, natural imperfections, no glossy or plastic look.
A warm home kitchen in the evening: a light-wood table, a laptop open (screen glow, no readable screen), a glass of water, pendant lights, a dark window behind.
OWNER: a specialist in their late 40s in a navy quarter-zip over a white shirt, seen mostly from behind or in profile at the laptop, face never in sharp close-up.
Action and hands: Evening. The owner sits at the kitchen table with the laptop, a glass of water nearby, scrolling the trackpad.
Face: Calm, relieved (seen in profile). Head: A slow nod at the screen.
Camera: Medium shot from behind the shoulder and side, laptop glow on their face, static.
OWNER speaks with a calm, measured voice in the late 40s, natural neutral American accent. Perfectly lip-synced: "I used to find out about problems months later. Now I just open the analytics."
Audio: only the spoken line and quiet room tone. No music, no subtitles, no captions, no on-screen text, no readable screens, no logos, no red clothing or props, no extra people, no warping hands or faces.

CLIP 10 Twenty-eight

72-80 s · 17 words

OWNER "Twenty-eight referrals this month. First call in under four hours. And I didn't have to ask anyone."

EDIT PLAN: REAL DASHBOARD INSERTS (SPLIT SCREEN)

- Clip 5-6: Status board (New 2, Received 1, In Progress 1, Left a Voice Message 3, Consultation Scheduled 3, Consultation Completed 4, Scheduled 4) - reel/public/analytics-ref/08-status-board.
- Clip 8: Update Status and the toast "Status updated successfully! A notification has been created." (real recording).
- Clip 9-10: Analytics KPIs - 28 received (+27% vs prior), time to first contact 3.7 h, case acceptance 76% - reel/public/analytics-ref/01-header-kpis; or a clip of reel/renders/analytics-demo.mp4.
- Clip 10: Needs attention 2 / 2 / 3 - reel/public/analytics-ref/06-needs-staff.

The monitors in the footage never show text, so the real screens go on top in the edit.

CLOSING VOICE-OVER (RECORD IN ELEVENLABS, FEMALE PRESENTER "BELLA")

"Even if your whole front desk changes tomorrow, your referrals don't skip a beat. A practice that runs on Tooth Referral, not on memory, is worth more. Set up takes about five minutes."

ROI LINE FOR THE CAPTION / END CARD

One referral missed because someone left can pay for a whole year of the software. A turnkey, data-backed referral system can raise practice value about 5-10% (about $50,000-$100,000 on a $1M practice).
