Dear Doctor First Name

about 75 s · 10 clips × 8 s | 180 words | Hook: "I almost didn't post this..." (hook reference library)

Awareness: copy-paste thank-you letters cost time and goodwill. Features: Prepare Consultation Note, templates, Insert Variable, Preview, Save as New Template, DocuSign signing, the Signed Referral link. Front-desk cost: retyping letters. GP value: a signed, correctly named note.

#	DIALOGUE (8 S)	EXPRESSION	ON SCREEN / EDIT
01	“I almost didn't post this, because it involves a thank-you letter that said ‘Dear Doctor First Name.’”	Embarrassed, then a slow wince	Red flash · stacked text I ALMOST DIDN'T POST THIS · a letter with “Dear Dr. [FIRST NAME]” circled in red
02	“Someone copied last week's letter, forgot to change the name, and the GP got thanked for somebody else's patient.”	Mock-horrified, hand over mouth	The letter flips: wrong patient name highlighted · a GP reaction bubble “who?”
03	“That's the glamorous life of a front desk: retyping the same consultation letter over and over, every week.”	Dry, tired sarcasm	A copy-paste loop animation on a keyboard · a stack of near-identical letters grows
04	“And it costs real money: front-desk hours on copy-paste, plus a GP who wonders if anyone read their referral.”	Humour drops; serious	A payroll clock over the letter stack · a GP referral arrow fading
05	“In ToothReferral, the consultation note starts from a template, and Insert Variable fills in the patient, doctor and date.”	Relieved, explaining	Split screen: the real Prepare Consultation Note, Template dropdown and Insert Variable highlighted, {{patientName}} filling in
06	“Preview it, tweak a line, and save your best version as a new template for next time.”	Pleased, easy	Cursor clicks Preview, then “Save as New Template”
07	“Then sign it with DocuSign, right inside ToothReferral. No printing, no scanning, no hunting for a pen.”	Satisfied, a little smug	The real DocuSign signing screen · signature placed · “All done — your document is signed!”
08	“The GP gets a signed note with the right name on it, and the referral is marked Signed Referral.”	Warm, proud	“Consultation Note signed and sent successfully” toast · the Signed Referral link in the incoming list
09	“The return? Even one GP who keeps referring because you always thank them covers the software for a whole year.”	Confident, holding up one finger	“1 GP who keeps referring = a full year covered” with 12 months filling in
10	“Start your free ToothReferral trial today, and never send another ‘Dear Doctor First Name’ again.”	Warm, playful wink	The wrong letter crumples into a bin → logo, “Start your free trial” button, end card

The Boomerang Patient

about 75 s · 10 clips × 8 s | 191 words | Hook: "I bet you didn't know this..." (hook reference library)

Awareness: finished cases that never go back to the GP cost referrals. Features: Cases Completed, Download PDF for patient, Outgoing referrals. Front-desk cost: letters, copies, “where do I go next?” calls. GP value: their patient comes back for restorative care.

#	DIALOGUE (8 S)	EXPRESSION	ON SCREEN / EDIT
01	“I bet you didn't know this: your best referral source is the patient you send back to the GP.”	Conspiratorial, a knowing smile	Red flash · stacked text I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW THIS · a boomerang spins in
02	“Treatment's done. The patient leaves. Then the GP calls: ‘So... are we getting them back, or did you adopt them?’”	Playing both voices, mock-suspicious on the GP line	A patient card walks off · a GP phone bubble with an adoption certificate gag
03	“Meanwhile your front desk is printing letters, mailing copies, and answering ‘where do I go next?’ calls all afternoon.”	Exasperated, counting on fingers	Printer, envelopes and ringing phone icons pile up on the front desk
04	“That costs twice: payroll on paperwork, and a GP who wonders if sending you patients means losing them.”	Humour drops; serious	A payroll clock over the paper pile · a GP referral arrow fading out
05	“ToothReferral's Cases Completed list shows every patient who's finished with you and ready to go back to their dentist.”	Relieved, explaining	Split screen: the real Cases Completed list, rows highlighted
06	“Download PDF for patient gives them their own clear copy, so they know exactly where to go next.”	Helpful, a satisfied nod	Cursor clicks “Download PDF for patient” · a PDF lands with “next stop: your dentist”
07	“Referring someone onward, say to a periodontist? Outgoing referrals tracks the cases you send out, just like the ones you receive.”	Practical, a light shrug	Outgoing referrals tab: Receiving Office and Sent columns highlighted
08	“And the GP gets their patient back for the crown, which is great for their production and your relationship.”	Warm, sincere	The boomerang returns to the GP office card · “restorative care: booked ✓”
09	“The return: even one GP who keeps sending patients because they always come back covers the software for a whole year.”	Confident, holding up one finger	“1 GP who keeps referring = a full year covered” with 12 months filling in
10	“Start your free ToothReferral trial today, and turn every finished case into a boomerang, not a mystery.”	Warm, playful	The boomerang lands in his hand → logo, “Start your free trial” button, end card